Muriel Strand auntym@earthlink.net 4208 Norton District 5 Sacramento CA	Please direct staff to draft an ordinance for the full council to consider and citizens to debate. Recently, I asked Christine Heinrichs, the environmental journalist and author of "How to Raise Chickens" and "How to Raise Poultry" about avian flu. She shared some good information which I have summarized at: www.sustainablesacramento.blospot.com. I would be happy to forward her email if you would like more details.	Support 11/16/2010

Michael Greene legaffairs@californiagrang e.org 3830 U Street Sacramento CA	At its 138th Annual Meeting in October of this year, the California State Grange approved the Resolution submitted by the Orangevale Grange #354 calling for "legalizing the humane and sanitary keeping of domestic hen chickens in all urban areas." Joe Calavita jcalavit@hotmail.com 3605 6th Ave Sacramento CA	Dear City Council Members: Please allow residents to keep a limited number of egg-laying hens. I like the eggs! Joe C.	None 11/15/2010
Jan Munro janmunro@juno.com 5235 Bamford Drive Sacramento CA	There are very serious health issues for any person with a compromised immune system and the airborne diseases associated with chicken droppings. 30 ft distance from human dwellings is not sufficient; currently I can't go in my own backyard without getting seriously ill due to the uncaged chickens in the neighboring yard. If it is that important to raise chickens, the party needs to move to a lot large enough to accomodate them, not the standard city lots in Sacramento.	Oppose 11/15/2010
